

31 August 1998

Ms Deane Shapiro
Faculty of Research and Academic Interests
Department of Psychiatry and Human Behaviour
University of California, Irvine
Irvine, CA 92697
USA

Dear Ms Shapiro,

I am a psychology student at the Australian Catholic University. At present I am preparing to do my fourth year, which is roughly equivalent to a Masters degree in America. Over the past 6 months I have become interested in Transpersonal Psychology and am interested in pursuing my interests next year, for my thesis. I read your and Astin's article in the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology (1997) on measuring control and its applications to Transpersonal Psychology. I found it very interesting and would like to use your control inventory (SCI) to do a comparative study between various practitioners of different belief systems.

I would appreciate greatly some further information on the SCI and if possible a copy of the inventory and its manual. My lecturer has also expressed interest in your control inventory.

My address is above, but I also have an email address if you have access to the internet. It is GCarr@bigpond.com.au.

Yours sincerely,

Nonie Carr.